

Citrus begins to ripen in Georgia around October and the season can go through February. Citrus is best adapted to the extreme southern and coastal area of Georgia.