

A sheep, depending on the breed, can produce between 2 and 30 pounds of wool a year! 1 pound of wool can make up to 10 miles of yarn.

Sheep have rectangular pupils. Their field of vision is between 270-320 degrees. (Humans field of vision is 155 degrees.)

Presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and James Madison all raised sheep. Madison wore a coat spun from his sheep's wool when he was sworn in as president. Woodrow Wilson kept a flock of sheep at the White House during World War 1 to keep the grass trimmed as a cost-cutting measure and to show support for the war effort.
